DECLARED VITAL FOR U.S. VICTORY

Hoover Urges Dictatorial Powers be Given Roosevelt

Former President Asserts
Fascist Economic Measure
Is Required In Total War

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover said last night that if the United States is to win the war President Roosevelt "must have dictatorial economic power" because he said "plain fascist economics" is necessary to triumph in total war.

"There must be no hesitation in giving them to him and putting him in them," the former president said. "However, we must expect a steady increase in economic freedom as the war goes on."

"We must start our thinking with a disapprobation, cold hard fact. That is, the economic measure necessary to win total war are just plain fascist economics."

Speaking on "The Limitations on Freedom in War" Hoover told the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., a research organization, that "from philosophical viewpoint" he would like to see "the sixth Roosevelt give a little more liberty."

He defined sixth Roosevelt as "one who discards the war or spectacle and even criticize in private communications."

In other address Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson predicted his administration would take up American war plans with Paul V. McNulty, federal security administrator, forecast a total of 25,000 soldiers and war workers by the end of 1943.

Patterson said the United States is winning the production war and that the war on the ground and front—the front of transportation.

David Willis, director of information of the British Supply Council of North America, said:

"During and after this war, America and England must stand together to meet the problems of both nations together. And it would be best to declare and identify our common principles—beyond the terms of the Atlantic charter."

THREE PRINCIPLES Willis said that after the war, he believed Britain and the United States should declare these three principles:

- 1—Free movement of goods without tariff walls.
- 2—A single currency.
- 3—Free movement of people.

In urging more freedom for citizens Hoover said: "More limitations on the liberty to 'limitation' should be increased during the war as a measure."

But neither Hoover nor the public he said should be criticized for exposing mistakes and wrong-doing in conduct of the war, but ground that such exposure lowers morale.

It is not the action of Congress in exposing these things that lowers morale, it is not the action of criticism by citizens that lowers it. It is the terrible stuff that is exposed which lowers morale.

Hoover said that it is freedom of expression that is needed to keep people alive.

MAJOR TANKS Asserting the three major tanks before the country are winning the war, after the war, securing "recovery of suspended liberties" and "restoring peace," he added that these three things are his own.

"It is not a definite war council embracing in its membership the civilian heads of the great war agencies."

"To think out" new post-war economic reconstruction, preparing for it by objective research and public debate.

Preparation for peace through setting up of a technical, economic and political focus over the whole war which will produce and hold peace.

Hull Predicts Allied Victory Sooner Than Expected

Vast Powers Of U.S. Are Moving Steadily Towards Great Offensive Climax

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—Victory is not so far away as it seemed a few months ago, State Secretary Cordell Hull indicated yesterday. He made no predictions as to the duration of the war, but suggested that anyone inclined to receive previous estimates as to its duration had some rather encouraging facts on which to base calculations.

Mr. Hull asked whether recent developments at home and abroad had encouraged him to hope that victory for the United Nations might come sooner than had been expected at the beginning of this year.

In reply he cited the steadily increasing acceleration of the war effort of the United States. He said the country's powers and facilities of going forward, first in offensive defense operations and then in outright offensive war, were mounting steadily toward a great offensive climax.

NEW CALCULATIONS
It was only natural, he suggested, that any new calculations as to the duration of the war should be made in light of those facts.

Mr. Hull's optimistic remarks were made against a background of reports from Europe indicating that German morale is deteriorating, that shortages of food and strategic materials in Hitler-dominated Europe are increasing, that the tide of British air raids on Germany is mounting and that the German offensive might soon hit a pace of 1,000 planes a night. During the bombs on the enemy.

In reply to questions on the situation across the Pacific, Hull likewise avoided any sweeping predictions. He rejected, however, any pessimistic interpretation of reports that Japan was about to launch an all-out drive to crush Chinese resistance.

If the Chinese continue to fight as they have fought in the past five years, he said, and continue to use the same spirit, there is reason to be confident that their resistance will continue to be successful.

McNaughton Lauds Red Cross Service

TORONTO, May 21.—(CP)—The Canadian Red Cross in Britain does many things on behalf of Canada's armed forces beyond the reach of the formal military and other governmental agencies, Lt.-Gen. A. G. McNaughton said in a recorded broadcast over a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation national network last night.

Gen. McNaughton, commander of Canada's army overseas, was speaking on behalf of the Red Cross current drive for $100,000.

Among the additional services provided by the Red Cross, he mentioned the library service for troops overseas; the handicraft training for soldiers convalescing in British hospitals; and the provision of special medical equipment not otherwise available to the injured. He said the Red Cross also provides for prisoners of war.

"All these services are free," he said. "We cannot do without them and we ask that they be continued and expanded as circumstances require."

Marblehead Limp Home 13,000 Miles

The U.S. cruiser Marblehead crawled into an east coast United States port after a voyage that took her 13,000 miles. Violently attacked by 94 planes near Borneo three months ago, she suffered terrific damage. Several times the Japanese had announced that the ship had been sunk. So badly was she damaged that bucket brigades were formed to augment the work of the ship's pumps.

Her own crew will. The objection was sustained. Wilton further revealed that he had picked up a lot of dirt and blood the following day and dumped it into an old well.

Shortly after this Leslie had left and had only gone back to visit his folks periodically.

The second had gone up to Devitt's place and buried a lot of Devitt's belongings as it would look like he had moved out.

When questioned, Leslie informed the court that he had said that he was afraid for his father and mother, not afraid of them, and that was the reason he had kept quiet all this time.

He testified that the family appeared much happier after Devitt's death.

Following the death of his sister Florence in 1935, just a few months after the death of Devitt, Leslie visited his home all the time when the old man was away," he said.

How did you know? "I've seen him," he said.

Leslie left school at the age of sixteen and previous to joining the army last year he had worked in logging camps with lumber and steel.

Cross questioned by defence counsel, Leslie further stated that he had seen Devitt walking up and down the road allowance opposite their home. One day Devitt, he said, had paid a visit to the Bennett home, and Leslie had asked him why he had come when the old man had ordered him off the place. Devitt spoke a few words to Mrs. Bennett and another visitor and left shortly after.

"Devitt used to sit and watch me whenever the old man went away he used to go into the house. He was ordered by all of us boys at various times to stay away, but we were scared of him," the witness testified.

"Ever since my sister was shot, the deceased was the wife of Devitt and died from a bullet wound in 1938, several notes were delivered from Devitt to mother. She used to send him milk, butter and eggs."

"You are a large family?" "Yes," Leslie replied.

"Never prominent?" "No," Leslie replied.

"You sometimes did not have enough to eat?" "We always got enough to eat," Leslie testified.

TROUBLE WITH BROTHER
"You remember when your brother had some trouble with Devitt?" "Yes, Leslie, George and Henry were working for Devitt at the time. When Henry came home that time he had a big bruise on the temple for which Devitt was sentenced to three months for assault."

"You were afraid of Devitt?" "Yes," Leslie replied.

"What? Because he was crazy. He would take up with and from the mouth?" "Yes, Leslie, he would take these things. Two or three times."

Charles Olson, 25-year-old daughter of the accused, took the stand next and said that she had married the man seven years and lived near the Everdale school.

"A few miles from her father's home. Did your father ever tell you anything about Devitt?" "Yes," Leslie replied.

"Did you ever have any conversation with your father since August 1, 1938, about Devitt?" "No, sir," Leslie replied.

"You sometimes did not have enough to eat?" "We always got enough to eat," Leslie testified.

"What did your father say?" "That mother was poisoning our minds against him. I told him that she wasn't as I knew of. He said that he would give me the law, the would say that mother was the cause of Devitt's death. I said that he would have to change his attitude. All else I can remember him saying at my house is that he put Devitt where he could not bother anybody."

"Do you know how old your father is?" "61 years."

"You mother, 31 years."

NERVOUS DISTRESS
"Have you noticed any change in your father lately?" "Yes, he has been suffering nervous distress of mind the last two or three years."

"How long have your father been out in that district?" "Thirty years—long as I can remember."

"You could not remember that long?" Witness laughed and the courtroom laughed.

NEXT WINTER

Ottawa Bans Use Of Oil For Heating Purposes In Homes, Industrial Plants

OTTAWA, May 21.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe announced in the House of Commons late yesterday that "there will be no heating by oil next winter in homes or factories anywhere in Canada."

He made the announcement in reply to a question from Karl Han- (Cdn. Waterloo) who said he had a number of inquiries as to what the oil situation would be in Ontario next winter.

Mr. Hanthout suggested that a warning be issued as soon as possible if there was to be a shortage.

"I think I can give that without notice," Mr. Howe said, and he made the announcement which will mean transformation of an untold number of exclusively oil-heating plants to some other form of fuel.

ACCEPT STATEMENT
The minister meant that he can take that statement and advise our people that all heating with fuel oil will be stopped for the coming winter," Mr. Howe replied.

The announcement was made during discussion of a committee of the whole of the war appropriation bill, regulation when the minister was being questioned on the gas-oil and oil situation.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Guenther

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—The best dressed and possibly the best versed of the college coaches poured through his pinstriped future today and detected a subtle but definite lack in the strategy of the battle-field and that of the gridiron.

The war, predicted Lou Little, will substantially alter the tactics and the psychology of football. Primarily, the balance of power will shift to the offense.

An old warrior himself—he served as a captain in World War I—the sage of Morningide Heights expressed his contention simply. In about six months, he emphasized, people have become offense-minded. Individual exploits and daring have been stressed everywhere. Boys, preoccupied—are thinking in terms of command, pursuit, attack and penetration.

THOUGHTS TRANSLATED INTO ACTION THIS FALL

These thoughts will be translated into action on the football fields this fall. Professor Little believes that the pace of the game will be stepped up and that many of the safe, conservative measures favored in the past will be positively scrapped. Instead of playing tight close to the body, the boys will be more inclined to cut and gamble.

"It is a mere matter of human psychology," the professor explained to me in his office at Columbia University, where for years he himself has used the psychology and a handful of players in battle on equal terms with the name frames of the east. "Just consider the airplane. You can't look at the sky, a movie, a book or a paper without seeing an airplane. How will it affect them. Why, it will inspire them to throw more and more forward passes. They wouldn't be quite human if they didn't. For they have taken on new meaning to them as it is to us. It is certain to influence them."

KEY WORD OF FOOTBALL BOUND TO BE ATTACK

Near, consider the progress of the war. Little intimated. Day after day we hear military men, political leaders and just plain folks pouring the military value of a lightning offensive, a second front, a coordinated attack at enemy home fronts. Defensive maneuvers have been themselves to be dubious at best. The key word of the war has been attack.

And Little believes that the key word of football will be attack. He isn't saying that coaches will just give the boys a ball and tell them to lose it wildly. But he does think that the game will be ribbed tactics and stonewall tactics will be relaxed gradually. Now that the center back or the off-tackle smash will be abandoned, the play will be used less frequently.

The accent will be switched to the offense and to the individual brain power. Football will remain a tough game but it will become a smarter game. The material will be selected with a view to increased potentialities of attack and the boys themselves will provide more action by taking more chances. A tie will no longer be a moral victory. It will be a defeat.

STANDARD OF PLAY WILL NOT SUFFER

One of the astute and learned coaches, Little does not agree with the calamity John who say the game will drop far below standard because many boys are entering the armed forces, taking military drill or studying on an accelerated program which reduces their years of eligibility and their hours of practice. He says any expert will notice the difference.

"There will be almost as much football and what better," he said, "than what will be able to be left. The game will be fought just as close, just as energetic as ever. As for the draft, I believe it will hit all schools and colleges relatively. It will hit a certain number of boys, and so will all other numbers."

Because the boys will be slightly younger and because there will be fewer of them, Little believes the free substitution rule introduced last year will prove particularly beneficial. As chairman of the coaches' rules committee, he was slightly worried last season when the new regulation was attacked in the early weeks, but he was relieved by mid-season.

"When September comes everyone will realize that this rule is a wise one," he said. "Originally, it was designed to help the little fellows who were being crowded out. It will help all sizes and all institutions. For it always takes just a bit more energy to carry on a sustained attack than to remain on the defense and this year there will be plenty of attack."

Percy Williams, former Olympic sprint champion, on Wednesday afternoon again took the clinder path—but this time it was as the starter. The winner of the 100 and 200 metre events at Amsterdam in 1928 officiated at the No. 4 I.T.S. meet at Varsity Stadium yesterday.

Greek Batter Comes Back

Christoforidis Outposts Johnny Colon In 10-Round Go

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—Anton Christoforidis of Cleveland bounced back as ranking challenger for the world's light-heavyweight championship Wednesday night by turning back the bid of rugged Johnny Colon of New York in a 10-round battle in the Chicago Stadium.

Christoforidis, who won the championship from Mello Betina and then lost it to Gus Lenevich in the 30-year-old New York, had previously won 38 of his 47 bouts.

Colon had won seven straight engagements in Chicago without a defeat. After winning the first round and then dropping the second, the aggressive Greek warrior, punting accurately and fast with both hands, battered Colon with a ball attack in the third and remained in the lead until the finish.

The battle drew receipts of $15,171. Christoforidis, a half a head shorter than Colon, weighed 168½ to 173 for the New York. Boxer Beckwith, reconditioned lightweight, from Gary, Ind., returned to his own division after a fling at heavyweight, and knocked out Andy (Kid) Miller, Sioux City, Mo., in the third round of their scheduled night rounder. Miller weighed 185½ to 174½ for the Gary Negro.

Percy Williams Acts As Starter

With Percy Williams, Canada's famed Olympic sprinter, serving as starter for the racing events, star athletes from among Canada's future knights of the sky, training at No. 4 I.T.S. School, R.C.A.P., dashed in their first track and field meet at the University of Alberta Stadium Wednesday afternoon.

Williams, who carried the maple leaf to a double Olympic triumph at the 1928 Olympiad at Amsterdam, is now doing his best for the Empire in another game as co-captain at No. 3 Air Observers School.

Always a popular athlete, Percy was greeted by a tremendous ovation by the fans in training, many of whom hail from the Pacific coast, where Williams rose to athletic fame.

A prerequisite for Aircrew qualification is "physical fitness." In the I.T.S. School, this phase is overlooked. It is at the Initial Training School where actual ground training commences that emphasis is laid on team work and co-operation. The training is the properly coordinated operation of the training group. The R.C.A.P. as well demonstrated in wider widespread races on enemy territory.

The many entrants in the various events on Wednesday is a clear indication that No. 4 I.T.S. is not lacking in vigorous Canadian manpower, imbued with the combative spirit and keen to qualify for active operation in the theatre of war.

Since No. 4 I.T.S. was opened nearly one year ago many outstanding athletes have received ground instruction and graduated Elementary Flying School throughout Canada. Presently attached to this school is AC2 B. Kerkman, formerly of Sorella, Alberta, two times winner of the Calgary Herald annual road race and Sgt. M. E. Marynowski, prominent track athlete of British Columbia.

It was only fitting that at the Sports meet of the season that Percy Williams, Olympic track star and one-time world's Badminton champion, should be the first to appear in the 200 Yards. The appearance of this popular sportsman was greeted with a spontaneous ovation by the fans in training, many of whom hail from the Pacific coast.

The track and field meet was held by permission of Wing Commander J. A. Hutchison, officer commanding No. 4 I.T.S., himself an enthusiast for sports.

Athletes from Headquarters and four training squadrons of potential pilots, observers and other aircraft crew members were present. The presence of radio technicians training in the field was also noted.

Then going further east to Montreal, Myrtle Cook's resume of Canadian swimming records, Hamilton holding the most at date, followed by Vancouver, Toronto and Winnipeg in order. She hopes for a better Quebec showing at the coming Dominion meet at St. Adele and expresses the opinion that many swimmers have been appearing in outfits so recent that the regulated Guy Nineties would be amazed at the present day lack of coverage. Zippers and transparent suits are definitely on the "must not" list.

As to our question of last week about the raise in admission price to Toronto's Sunnyside softball game, we surmise there are several little things behind the suggestion. The first is that the managers that have not appeared in actual print. Seems though the teams are in various cases sponsored by business firms; that the split last year ran up to some seven hundred dollars each team; that expenses are expected to run higher this year with visiting teams probably having to travel by train and say it softly, it will cost a little more this year for meals while the married women are away from home at practices and games. This manhandling the sportsman's purse more at the end of the season.

TORONTO, May 21.—(CP)—Harry Giddings' Ten To Ace ran the fastest mile of the three-year-old training season here Wednesday in his last split workout for the $40,000 added King's Plate at Woodbine Park here last Saturday.

The chestnut colt by Stand Pat out of Royale stepped the mile in 1:42.3 and finished full of run. The plate distance is nine furlongs and 13 in the third running of the classic.

Two New Pitchers Turn Out

Fifteen Players Sign Up With Arrows Baseball Club

With 15 players under contract, several of whom will be making their debut in local senior baseball, the Arrows are shaping up as being quite capable of going places this season.

Coach Dick Speer and Manager Lou Larsen were both on the job at last night's practice and they expect to have their charges ready for Sunday afternoon's opener against the Dodgers.

So far only three of last year's Arrows appear in the picture and they are Mac Colville, Fred Lupul and Letty Belter.

Colville looked after the centre pinner last season and last night he was expected just as much territory as he ever did before and they take in plenty of home runs. Park's choicest area. Mac always has been a dependable fielder and knows more than the average about batting as well.

Fred Lupul, it will be remembered, took his turn behind the bat last year and when not in charge of the home plate umpire's job in the field, Fred can take a nasty cut at the ball with the old willow.

Eddie (Lefty) Belter is another oldtimer and it looks as if he will be turning plying his trade for the Georgia Shoreline and Morris Hawkey.

Shortstop is a newcomer so far as Renfrew is concerned, but he looks good and of course Hawkey's work for Ponks last summer stamped him as one of the best fingers in these parts.

Several of last year's Arrows will be making their appearance in June uniforms. Doug Stevenson is going to be hard to keep down behind the plate. He has real power and is a good fielder. He calls and was one of the leading players in the loop last season.

Pete Danilowski and Bud Patry, of last year's Junior Maple Leafs, are expected to be in the line-up. Joe Chornowski, of Maple Leaf Junior football fame, has also been taken into the Arrow camp. This will be Joe's first serious bid in baseball, but if he can hit the ball as well as he did last year for the Leafs, he will be just right.

As a matter of fact the way Joe was driving them out to deep center last night gives every indication that he may prove to be one of the heaviest hitters in the league.

Other players signed up so far for the Arrows include George Repek, Tom Heston, Elmer Gray and Jack Harris.

SAFEGUARD AGAINST FUTURE SHORTAGE

Canadian Beef Cattle Price Placed On Par With U. S.

Adjustment Of Ceiling
Level To Be Permitted:
Export Control Planned

OTTAWA, May 21.—(CP)—Arrangements to guard against future shortages in Canada and maintain prices for cattle producers were announced yesterday by Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Three major steps have been decided on.

1.—Producers will receive the price which they would normally receive for cattle shipped to the United States and exports will be controlled when necessary.

2.—A control organization will purchase cattle from exporters in periods of short supply and re-sell them in the domestic market.

3.—Adjustments on ceiling prices will be permitted, giving recognition to seasonal variations in cattle prices.

The effect of the plan on wholesale and retail prices will be announced later, Mr. Gordon said.

SHORTAGES REPORTED

In recent weeks shortages of beef on eastern Canadian markets have been reported, while shipments to the United States under the quota which permits the export of more than 100,000 annually from Canada have been made at export prices.

Mr. Gordon said the plan evolved to ensure adequate domestic supply of beef and protect the cattle producers on the export prices was "comprehensive."

Cattle producers will receive the export price for the number of cattle which could be exported to the United States. The domestic market "will be supported up to the level of beef selling prices until each export quota has been filled."

"Beef cattle shipments to the United States are divided into quarterly quotas. The quarterly quota starting on April 1 will be 100,000 in May and the next quota shipments will start on July 1."

MAY QUOTA WELLS

The details of the organization necessary to carry out the plan may take a few weeks, but immediate relief from the present unsatisfactory condition in the beef industry will be given, Mr. Gordon said.

The board had recognized from the outset of price control the necessity of seasonal variations in the prices of certain agricultural products. Beef cattle prices normally reflect their lowest levels in November, after which there was usually a steady price rise to June of the following year.

The necessity for such seasonal variations, to cover cost of wintering and to encourage winter finishing of cattle, now was being recognized by providing for adjustments in ceiling prices by periods throughout the full 12-month cycle.

Mr. Gordon said the plan was the result of investigation and study in association with the agriculture department and representatives of producers and the beef trade.

"The new plan included a means of paying beef producers the export price for cattle which they would normally ship to the United States and provides a system for the control of exports of cattle whenever shortages in the domestic supply of beef call for action," Mr. Gordon said.

FOOD CORPORATION

"A food corporation, to be operated under the board food administration (Gordon Taggart), will be established."

"The food corporation will, in periods of short supply, acquire beef cattle from exporters in accordance with the quota and will re-sell such cattle in the domestic market at prices consistent with wholesale beef prices."

To make this control effective, exporters of beef cattle will be placed under license. Licenses will be granted subject to a condition giving the food corporation the right to interfere with the domestic market at a price equivalent to that which the exporter would receive in the export market.

Kinsmen Clubs Send
2,500,000 Quarts Of
Milk To Great Britain

In a little less than eight months, the Kinsmen Milk-for-Britain Fund has purchased and shipped more than two and a half millions of quarts of milk to British children—a million quarts more than had been promised by the Kinsmen when they accepted this responsibility last September.

The Edmonton Kinsmen Club through its efforts has contributed more than 80,000 quarts of milk to this total on behalf of its members and the people of Edmonton and northern Alberta.

The Association of Kinsmen Clubs first set an objective, and gave a pledge to Britain of a purchase and delivery of 1,500,000 quarts of milk before July 1, 1942. This pledge was fulfilled in March and a new objective of 2,500,000 quarts was then announced.

Objectives Of Church 5-Fold
Says Moderator

Purpose of the Christian church today is five-fold, R. L. Ser-Aubrey & Tuttle, M.A., D.D., L.L.D., moderator of the United Church in Canada stated Wednesday night.

The speaker was Rev. G. A. Little, B.A., D.D., editor of the Sunday School publications.

A tropical fruit of Brazil, jaboticaba, grows straight out from the back of the tree, not on branches.

The church, he said, must give inner support to the individual when outer supports are crumbling; it must transcend bitterness and racial and national prejudices to bring about national and world unity; it must employ its moral sensitivity and spiritual insight to make a practical part of forming the post-war program of the world; it must furnish the Christian soul with a deep and lasting spiritual ground.

He declared that the church has a unique and urgent responsibility in attempting national and world unity, and advanced the joint effort of all religious groups to "speak unitedly as Christians" for the maintenance of the only pure ground of unity, based on a common moral and spiritual ground.

The moderator stated that the church is holding up well to its task in wartime. He told the meeting that despite "distractions and counter-attractions" there is good reason to believe that public worship services throughout Canada.

Financial support is being given in the best of spirit and the churches elsewhere he said. A contribution of $88,000 has been given to the British churches, he said.

Rev. Tuttle praised the work of the 1,018 branches of the Canadian Red Cross Society who, up to the end of March had sent close to two million and a half million articles overseas.

Following the session, a reception was held in the Sunday school room of the church, in compliment to the moderator and Mrs. Tuttle.

In the Thursday morning session, address was given by Rev. F. W. Newwood, D.D., minister of St. Andrew's Wesleyan church in Vancouver.

He also ignored post-war plans for war effort and those who ignore war effort for post-war reconstruction. He stated that the proper procedure toward the post-war problem should be "100 per cent war effort first, with careful planning for the post-war period."

He also warned against the dangers of selfish thinking as a serious hindrance to an all-out effort.

It is certain that in order to promote a successful post-war reconstruction program the causes of the undesirable consequences that followed the last war must be removed, he said.

ROOT OF EVIL.

The root of the whole evil was the chronic shortage of buying power in the hands of the consuming public. This is caused by private monopoly in the field of money and credit, he added.

Mr. Maclean reviewed the history of both Britain and United States over the past century in bringing forth their relationships that finally led to the drawing up of the Atlantic Charter last fall.

The charter provides that Britain and United States, in the assistance of the other United Nations, will police the world and trade barriers will be removed.

Enforcing the charter after the war will bring back prosperity to all, he said.

Man In Her Heart

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER XXVI
ANNE impulsively put out her hand and patted the old man's arm.
"Thank's, Doc. It sounds good, even if it isn't possible. You know I wouldn't mind if you treated yourself to a drink—just one, mind you, because I need you from now on."

"Nothing doing. If I take one drink it means a dozen, and that means—well, I don't have to tell you. I'm drinking nothing but water from now on."

She dropped him at his rooming house, and went home to a lonely dinner. It wasn't long before she had a letter from him. It was from her old home, where she had lived for so long. It was a letter from her mother, who had been waiting for her to come home. She had been waiting for her to come home, and she had been waiting for her to come home. She had been waiting for her to come home, and she had been waiting for her to come home.

VILK MOOD

A miserable evening devoted to thinking over her troubles left her in a vile mood and she wanted to be as cordial as she might have been when Brenda awoke over to her barn and sat down to talk next day. "Sorry you've had such busy days, Anne," she said, lighting a cigarette. She smiled as she held a jeweled lighter in her hand, and then passed it over to the other girl. "That's what Brenda gave me. I thought you might like it, and it's my last night."

"Nice," Anne commented, hand give up.

ing it back. "Expensive, too, I imagine."

"I suppose so. But I told me how you happened to lose Moon Jade. It's a rotten shame. You'd have been better off to take Dad's offer, wouldn't you?"

"That leaves you sort of—well, up against it, doesn't it?"

"Oh, I've got a couple of horses left."

"How about Koko?" I talked with Dad this morning and he's willing to go as high as $8,000 for him."

"He's not for sale, thanks."

"I thought—Brenda hesitated, and then went on—"we thought that since losing Moon Jade, you might be looking for a way out. I mean that you might want to quit, you know."

The way Brenda emphasized the word, and the slightly patronizing tone that had crept into her voice brought a flash of bad temper as Anne demanded to know whom she meant by "we."

She could have bitten her tongue the moment the words were said and the answer didn't tend to soothe her feelings.

"Well, Rusty and I. We were here looking for you last night, and it was my last night."

"Nice," Anne commented, hand give up.

It only meant to be helpful. And as for being jealous—I never dreamed that you—

"That's enough, please," Anne cut in. "I'm not jealous, and I do appreciate your offer. Rusty's personal tastes are none of my affair. And now if you'll excuse me, I have work to do."

She abruptly got up from her chair and walked over to the stall where Cephus was giving Koko's coat a good brushing.

"Buckle him for me, Cephus," she ordered. "I'm going to take him out on the track."

"But he don't need no runnin', Miz Anne," the Negro protested.

For once in his life, Koko got all the running he wanted, as Anne, after centering for a mile, worked him the full mile and a quarter distance. She was so far from the stall that she forgot to use her stop watch.

Rail birds and professional clockers, however, didn't overlook the fact that Anne had left the track.

The fast ride did much to restore Anne's good humor and renew her courage. She was smiling when she returned to the barn and turned the steaming 30-year-old over to Cephus and Doc.

Japanese Cruelty Told By Australian Airman Now In Training Here

That the Japanese bayoneted 25 Australian prisoners after binding their captives' arms, during the invasion of northern New Guinea, was claimed here Thursday by a student pilot of the Royal Australian Air Force, LAC Garth Munro, former junior reporter of the Albury Banner, Albury, New South Wales.

Deputy Mayor

LAC Munro said the story of the fiendish cruelty of the Japanese captives was told to a newspaper friend of his working on the Sydney Times by an Australian soldier who miraculously survived the bayoneting and was able to crawl away to the bush after the massacre terminated.

The wounded soldier was later rescued by a body of Australian troops who had captured the Japanese and he was returned to Australia.

The survivor stated the prisoners were first bound with ropes and then dragged one at a time, behind some bushes, where they were decapitated.

Liberated prisoners

Each man in awaiting his "turn" had to listen to the death cries of his comrades.

The survivor was not struck in a vital spot and despite the fact the Japanese officer fired a bullet from a revolver into his shoulder as he lay among his dead companions, he still had sufficient vitality to crawl into the bush. He was rescued a short time later.

The story was published for propaganda purposes, because the paper that published it also carried an interview with an Australian soldier who escaped from Malaya.

This soldier stated the Japs had treated prisoners in a "fairly well" way, LAC Munro said.

Allies Fight For Spiritual, Moral Uplift

Rev. E. G. Turnbull, pastor at Knox United Church, was guest speaker at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of Edmonton Rotary Club at the Macdonald hotel Thursday noon. Turnbull's address was, "Some Great Things in British Tradition."

Rev. Turnbull expounded the opinion that the Allied nations are not fighting for any particular form of government, for territorial gain or for material profit, but for the spiritual values that are contained in the British Empire.

The most outstanding spiritual value contained in Britain's tradition for law, order and justice which has become a by-word around the world, he stated.

BRIITISH TOLERANT
Broad tolerance of races, religions, languages and national origins characterizes the British people, he remarked. Only two of many examples of this is the rise of Disraeli, a Jew, to the supreme position in British parliament, and the freedom of speech that is so well exemplified in London's Hyde Park, Rev. Turnbull stated.

Among other spiritual values of the British are a sense of honor, a democratic spirit of independence and a deep respect for the rights of the individual and a deep respect for the rights of the individual.

The speaker realized that the British people are not fighting for any particular form of government, for territorial gain or for material profit, but for the spiritual values that are contained in the British Empire.
